

Each of 3 sections will hold a 3 frame nuc. Each with its own main and upper entrance, and can be opened without disturbing the other 2. With as many Queens as I have sold. I have not raised a single one. But instead I give the Bees the resources and the correct environment to raise one on their own. Options include simply providing a frame of young brood and eggs, grafting young larva, and punching eggs from wax comb and placing on queen rearing frame.
